

Peregrine Serviceable Tank Level Gauges

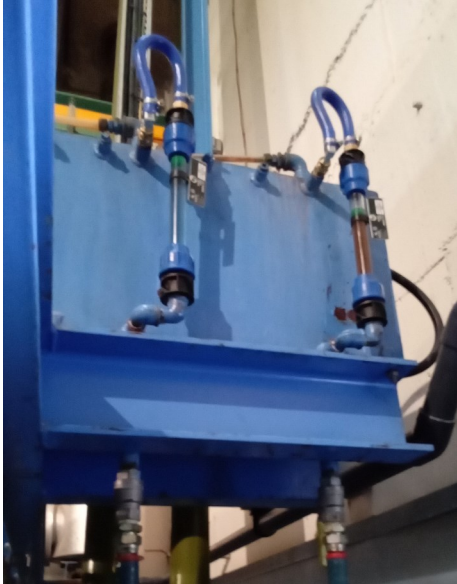

Peregrine Serviceable Tank Level Gauges provide clear and easy visibility of tank fluid levels thanks to the coloured ball float. Made from durable high temperature tubing and brass fittings, Peregrine tank level gauges are made to stand the harshest environments and should they need cleaning, they can be quickly and easily dismantled and cleaned for on-going use providing cost efficiencies and help for the environment.

Ideal applications are water and/or coolant tanks. The user can cut the tubing if required to suit their specific application making them the versatile solution for almost any environment.
